Interior design can make all the difference in a home

By Bill Bohlin

What makes an interior design studio stand out from all of the rest? At Shoreline Interiors, the answer is both simple and complex. It is simple in that customer satisfaction is paramount. But how is that achieved? We believe that it is by exceptional attention to detail, by choosing furnishings that reflect true quality and style, by providing professional consultation, and by always making sure that every client always gets his/her money's worth. Every piece of furniture, every window treatment, every accessory that we provide is of the highest quality.

In our showroom, some of the finest furniture made can be scrutinized. See it, touch it, dream it. From the deep woods of the Arctic Circle in Sweden to the balmy shores of California, from the rolling hills of Vermont and Connecticut to the small village of Shanagarry in County Cork, Ireland, come some of the exquisite items that can be found at Shoreline Interiors. The finest craftsmanship in the world is on display inside our doors.

We carry such lines as Barclay Butera upholstered pieces, D.R. Dimes timeless 18th century reproduction pieces in tiger maple and cherry, the very unique Somerset Bay solid mahogany pieces that are available in 16 finishes, InnerAsia classic Tibetan rugs, and accessories from Simon Pearce and Hubbardton Forge. Or take a trip with one of our designers to the Boston Design Center and see much more that is available to all of our customers.

Marin Rheinhardt, a graduate of the Savannah College of Art and Design and a designer at Shoreline Interiors, sums up her philosophy in these words: "My goal is to breathe life into new and existing spaces, while reflecting the client's lifestyle and individual aesthetic. A home should be completely unique to the owner. Timeless design is always the best. The furnishings used must always stand the test of multiple generations creating a genealogy of spaces and cherished memories."

So, please feel free to stop in at our showroom on Route 6A in the beautiful town of Dennis and see for yourself what we are talking about.

Or contact either Marin or Cara Joly for a design consultation appointment. Whatever your design needs might be, we are there to serve you.
